

Statement

Brunel University physiotherapy programme team are pleased to announce we have achieved 'preferred bidder' status with NHS London for the provision of physiotherapy pre-registration education and training in London. Brunel is one of the bidders who, through our tender, have achieved the heightened quality standards set by NHSL on behalf of service providers and their patients.

The process is continuing, and Brunel is working in partnership with NHS London to agree a new contract that will enable us to recruit a new student cohort from September 2012. We wish to thank everybody who has been directly involved in the tender process and all those who offered us support and advice.

The undergraduate physiotherapy programme was recently re-approved by the Brunel University, the Health Professions Council and the Chartered Society of Physiotherapy, and the new programme had its first intake in September 2011. Most of the teaching of this programme is delivered in The Mary Seacole Building in specialist practical rooms. In the 2011 National Student Survey, the programme was rated top in London and in Brunel, thereby maintaining its high ranking from previous years.

Find out more about the physiotherapy programme, see our new videos and listen to podcasts at <http://www.brunel.ac.uk/courses/undergraduate/B160>