

English for Research Writing (PhD students only)
(1.5 hours a week for 7 weeks)

Who the course is for

The course is designed for students who are enrolled on PhD programmes. Participants are expected to have some familiarity with academic journals in their subject areas and a rough idea of what their research area is.

Course Aim and Outcomes

You can write in an appropriate style for various publications in your academic discipline and your PhD.

To do this you will:

- write in an academic style;
- analyse and evaluate samples of writing in your own field of study;
- vary your writing to suit different audiences;
- use text patterns commonly found in academic writing;
- structure information appropriately;
- correctly use vocabulary and grammatical structures commonly found in your academic discipline;
- display the types of critical thinking expected in your academic discipline;
- use complex punctuation correctly.

Course Content

Although lessons are organised by sections of a typical chapter headings, each class has a focus on language as well as structure.

Course materials will be provided by your teacher.
